Biggest news this week is the effort being made by Half Moon Bay citizens to incorporate their beautiful city. Justice of the Peace Manuel Bettencourt, former Chamber of Commerce head, and present Chamber leaders are behind the movement, which is designed to give Half Moon Bay better community services, and raise the city to the stature it has earned for itself in a long history. The Meaning of 502

If the letters P.O. mean post office to you, chances are you aren't a baseball fan—in baseball the letters stand for put outs. And if the numbers 502 make you think of a phone number chances are you subscribe to the adage "Alcohol and gasoline don't mix," because to policemen and newspaper men 502 stands for a section of the California Vehicle Code dealing with drunk driving.

Last weekend the following five persons learned the meaning of 502 in San Mateo County through the instruction of the California Highway Patrol and police of Redwood City, San Carlos and San Mateo.

Ensign Charles E. Jackson, 21, stationed at Hunters Point, San Francisco was arrested Saturday night by CHP officers as he drove on Canada Rd. near the scene of an accident in which another ensign was injured. After posting $100 bail, he was ordered to appear Oct. 25 before Judge Edward McAuliffe, charged with drunken driving.

James Wood of San Francisco is being held in the juvenile home pending investigation of his date of birth by San Carlos police who arrested him at 2:15 a.m. Monday on El Camino Real on charges of drunk driving.

Thomas J. Broderick, 727 Fremont St., San Mateo, arrested by San Carlos police at 2:18 a.m. Sunday on El Camino Real was released on $150 bail and ordered to appear before Judge Rupert Johnson's San Carlos City Court Oct. 24, on charges of drunken driving.

John Chapman, 21, of Millbrae, was arrested on drunk driving charges on El Camino Real at 7:32 p.m. Saturday by San Mateo police.

Vincent Schulba, 41, 813 Canyon Rd., was arrested by Redwood City police Sunday at 10:30 p.m. on El Camino Real at Brewster Ave. on a charge of drunken driving and is being held in the San Mateo County jail on $150 bail.

A Class for Aviators

A program of flying training for veterans got under way Monday at Palo Alto Airport, and ground-school classes as part of the program will begin this week at Palo Alto Evening School.

Palo Alto Airport received CAA approval Saturday as a school for training veterans under the GI Bill of Rights. The initial class, which is to run for about 10 weeks, already has been filled, it was reported by Frank Moore, chief instructor in charge of the airport's program.

Ray Rupel, principal of the Palo Alto Evening School, announced that as part of the GI flying training program, ground-school classes will be given at Palo Alto High School Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 9:30.

This program is for veterans who wish to secure a private pilot's license, it was pointed out. The CAA has been designated by the Veterans' Administration as the agency to approve schools for GI programs, according to Mr. Rupel.

The evening school program for ground-school instruction, which will lead to a CAA ground-school certificate, is now approved by the state department of education. Approval by the CAA is expected in the near future, he stated.

While present ground-school classes at the evening school are set up only for veterans, if enough non-veterans indicate a desire to enroll, an identical program will be set up for them, Mr. Rupel said. Tuition for the ground-school classes will be $2.50 for both veterans and non-veterans.

Subjects to be taken up during the 50 to 75 hours of instruction are civil air regulations, meteorology, aerial navigation, general service of aircraft and radio.

The initial class of from 20 to 25 students includes two women veterans, Mr. Moore said. Five flying instructors will be available.

A Civic Affair

An advertising program, launched by the Chamber of Commerce to attract industry to Redwood City, was under way this week, E. W. (Ned) Butler, chamber manager, announced.

On hand, Butler said, are copies of a booklet explaining the city's advantages in terms that the chamber hopes will influence manufacturers to construct new plants within the city.

The booklet stresses the climate advantages of building a plant where employes can enjoy "happy country living." It points out that a Redwood City plant can ship economically by means of truck, rail or ship and gives rail and truck shipping rates from the city.

Such subjects as the temperature, the cost of electric power and an analysis of the city's water are also treated. Charts comparing tax rates in the city with those of other communities are given.

Butler said that booklets will be sent in answer to questions concerning the city and that each booklet will include a leter from the chamber answering specific problems of the industrialist involved.

A Vicious Offense

Charged with beating a woman, Manuel Cardenas, 21, 24 Locust St., and Manuel J. Ferriera, 28, 313 Poplar Ave., were arrested Sunday by Redwood City police.

Police made the arrest after a complaint had been signed by Lewdine Williamson, 527 Bradford St., in which Miss Williamson charged that the pair struck her in front of 816 Main St. Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Released from the San Mateo County jail on payment of $100 bail, the pair was given until Thurdsay to enter a plea by Police Judge W H. (Bud) Thorpe.

News of Commuters

BY LOCOMOTIVE BILL

When we asked Caboose to write his own column last week we had no idea the old fellow in his weakened condition would be so frisky. Those comments inferring Loco was visiting Los Angeles for the purpose of viewing a football game when everyone else knew it was business indicated that the sly old codger was beginning to spark as of yore.

In reading his column we were almost convinced that Joe was completely rejuvenated and were congratulating ourselves on the coup de grace that we slipped over on Caboose to bring him out of retirement but alas it didn't work. As Joe drew to the end of this column you could tell he was suffering from lack of nourishment so in the last paragraph he bowed out and here we are right back in again. His readers will now realize that any remarks or innuendos in reference to Loco or Stanford can be excused in view of his heretofore mentioned weakened condition.

Anyway it was nice to have Joe back even if only for a week. After a short rest we are convinced that he will be giving his all for the commuters once more.

This little piece is all about rubbish. Over a year ago in this column we suggested that Redwood City institute a free pickup service for garden cuttings, leaves, etc., such as has been provided by San Mateo and other cities. Under the plan the city picks up the garden cuttings each week from the curb in front of each home.

The citizens are required to provide containers which are emptied by city employees into trucks and returned to the curb for the next week's load. In providing this service potential fire hazards are eliminated and the city kept free of rubbish littered vacant lots. We thought it was a good idea then and still do.

It is our suggestion that City Manager Blom and the city council investigate the San Mateo plan with the idea of adopting it for Redwood City if and when sufficient trucks can be purchased and made available for the job.

While in Southern California we had the opportunity of observing parking meters in operation. As they are soon to be installed in Redwood City it was interesting to get the reaction of some of the citizens.

In Riverside with a population greatly in excess of Redwood City I was told that there was very little objection from the citizens to parking meters but that the opposition came principally from some of the merchants who used the parking spaces in front of their places of business for their cars and those of their employees.

Generally parking meters have relieved the parking problem in the downtown shopping areas and shoppers are usually able to find parking places for their cars. That fact alone should overcome the objection of most merchants as people usually trade with those stores which are easily accessible to parking.

The usual charge to motorists in cities where parking meters are in operation is 1 cent for 12 minutes with a 5 cent charge for one hour.

We were of course glad to see the city employees get that recent increase in salaries. Our only regret is that there was such a delay in making it effective. Commuters Eugene Hoffman and Tom Cutting, members of the board of review can be complimented on their farsighted policy in recommending that these increases be made effective immediately.

City Manager Blom is equally deserving of credit for giving the board of review an opportunity to consider the increases, particularly when previous city managers in Redwood City chose to ignore the board in the matter of salaries.

WHISTLE TOOTS: A notice in the mail from Norman Meyer of the House Committee indicates that Chairman Raubinger and committee members have taken to the mountains for their meetings this year. It seems that Duke Martin co-chairman who has a cabin in the Santa Cruz Mountains, thought it would be a splendid idea to leave the ladies at home over the weekend and enjoy an old time stag meeting in the wilds free from the temptations and cares of city living.

We understand the boys took along their bathing suits, decks of cards, dice and soda water. At press time no reports have been received regarding the meeting but Loco hopes to make a complete confession of everything next week.

An Artistic Display

Miss Wilhelmina Harper, city librarian, announces that in connection with National Picture Week, Oct. 20 to 26, the library is featuring its collection of pictures of the great artists.

Harry A. Archibald

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Harry A. Archibald, 69, who died late Saturday afternoon at the Veterans General Hospital in Oakland following an extended illness.

Mr. Archibald was a native of Musquodoboit, Nova Scotia, and for the past 10 years made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Harry A. Greene Jr. of 1303 Hopkins Ave. He was a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World War I, and held membership in the Emeryville Post No. 1010, V.F.W.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock at the Layng and Tinney Funeral Home. Rites were conducted by the Rev. C. E. Ward, pastor of the Woodside Congregational Church. Interment was in Oak Hill Memorial Park, San Jose.

Mr. Archibald is survived by his wife, Tressa I. Archibald, his daughter, Mrs. Harry A. Greene Jr. his grandchildren, Harry, Clay and Richard Greene, and his sister Mrs. Louie Newlin.

More Hospital Support

Citing the need of "more adequate medical and hospital care for our community" because of "suffering and endangering of life" resulting from shortage of hospital facilities, the text of a resolution passed by the Redwood City Ministerial Assn. at its last meeting urging approval of the Sequoia Hospital Dist. at the Nov. 5 general election was released Monday.

C. C. Armstrong, Redwood City councilman and chairman of the hospital campaign committee, said he had been given the resolution by the Rev. E. R. Gomes, secretary of the association. It reads as follows:

"The Redwood City Ministerial Assn. hereby heartily approves the proposed Sequoia Hospital Dist.

"In our work as ministers we have occasion to witness the need of more adequate medical and hospital care in our community. Instances have come to our knowledge of suffering and endangering of life because of lack of hospital accommodations.

"We therefore urge all our people to vote 'Yes' for the Sequoia Hospital Dist. at the election Nov. 5."

Gomes informed Chairman Armstrong that the resolution was passed unanimously by the ministerial group.

A Grisly Find

Sheriff's officers Monday were seeking to identify a man whose fully-dressed skelton was found Sunday in a section of an abandoned water main on the Sawyer Camp Rd. west of Skyline Blvd.

The man had been dead more than a year and Dep. Sheriffs Milton Minehan and Jack O'Brien said he probably died of natural causes.

The skelton was found by Harry Frerichs, Burlingame building contractor who was training two dogs during a hike in the area.

The skeleton was sitting upright in a section of rusty iron pipe three feet in diameter. It was fully dressed in long underwear, grey-brown wool pants, tan cotton shirt with a sports collar, a brown sports jacket and grey tweed overcoat. A pair of high-top dress shoes, size 7, was next to it.

No labels in the clothing indicated where they may have been purchased. Officers pin their hope of identifying the man on a set of false teeth. The upper was a full plate, but the low was a partial denture. The man had four teeth in the lower jaw, to which the lower plate had been atached.

The false teeth were in a pocket of the overcoat. In the trousers pockets were an empty coin purse, a key ring with six keys, a watch and a packet of cigaret papers.

The man evidently had been of slight build, and had brown hair, deputies said.

The body was taken to the Crosby-N. Gray Funeral Home in Burlingame pending identification.

Menlo Chest Drive

The Menlo Park Community Chest drive is over the half way mark, and Mrs. Malcolm G. Paterson, chairman, said Monday she was "quite confident" that Menlo Park will reach its goal.

Cash totaling $2300 has been contributed towards a goal of $4000, she reported.

The business district drive, being conducted by Robert Cain, is "well started," she declared, "and there has been good co-operation as far as we have gone."

Woman's Guild

Members of the Plymouth Guild of the First Congregational Church were hostesses to the Women's Guild on Wednesday, when a program of speakers was presented following the regular meeting with Mrs. Edith Newcomb presiding.

Mrs. Wayne Reed, program chairman, presented Mrs. H. R. Mohr, who spoke on specialized volunteer services of the Red Cross. Mr. Marvin Kahn, assistant to the chief of special services at the Veterans' Hospital, a veteran himself and a graduate of Stanford University, told of the work now being done at the hospital and of the vital need for more volunteer workers.

A special highlight of the afternoon were the piano duets rendered on two pianos by Delores and Betty Schembri.

The tea table was set with Halloween decorations and dahlias. Cohostesses were Mrs. William Pfaffin and Mrs. Ray Marshall, assisted by Mis Folrence Belli, Mrs. Charles Greener and Mrs. Annie Wheeler.

More Juvenile Problems

The arrest of three San Francisco juveniles on a charge of statutory rape involving a 15-year-old girl has crowded facilities at the county juvenile home to such an extent that Friday night some of the boys slept on mattresses on the floor, Chief Probation officer John S. Cowgill said Saturday.

There are now 24 under care of juvenile authorities, Cowgill said. Normal capacity at the juvenile home is 12.

The three youths were arrested in San Francisco by Dep. Sheriffs Milton Minehan and Paul Jensen on charges stemming from an alleged attack on the girl by the three after a Columbus Day dance in Mission High School, San Francisco.

Minehan said that the girl told him that a group of boys and girls piled into two cars after the dance, and that they dropped off various girls at their homes. When she was the last girl left in the car, the three boys drove to Skyline Blvd., parked near the junction with Highway 1, and attacked her, Minehan said she told him.

After she was taken home, she informed her uncle, who complained to sheriff's officers here.

The youths are 19, 18 and 16 years old. One of them is a ward of the juvenile court in San Francisco. The girl and one of the other boys formerly were juvenile court wards but had been released.

The 24 in the juvenile home here, are held for violations involving car theft and sex offenses, and the rest are chronic runaways, Cowgill said.

Sixteen are to appear in juvenile court Monday, including six Redwood City boys who were arrested a week ago for the theft of about 20 cars during the past two months.

Five of the older youths are lodged at the juvenile home annex in the county jail. Adrian Ward, head of the probation committee, said that the county should have proper facilities to care for the older boys in the juvenile home, rather than to be forced to use jail facilities.

Two Fine Decades

O. W. Stewart last week celebrated his 20th anniversary as San Carlos building inspector by putting in "just another working day."

Stewart came to San Carlos in 1923, and took over his present job in 1926, a year after the city's incorporation. In his two decades of service to San Carlos Stewart had seen the city grow through permits issued by his office. In the first year he issued but 13 permits. So far this year 601 have been issued.

1946 has been the busiest of all 20 years, Stewart said. Contractors' valuation on new building this year is at an all-time high, $4,333,400.

A Boy Imprisoned

A cell door closed Saturday behind Robert Gorman, 17, who with two other youths staged holdups in San Leandro and Burlingame on Tuesday evening and who then, in a futile effort to escape a police car and injured Officer Adolph Fernandez.

Gorman was sufficiently recovered from injuries suffered in the crash to be removed from Community Hospital Friday to a cell in the county jail at Redwood City where he joined one of his other companions, Edgar Weipert, 17, the third youth involved, Webster Willoughby, 18, who at first was believed fatally injured, is slowly recovering, Hospital officials reported.

Fernandez is suffering from slight concussion in addition to a leg wound he incurred when his police car was wrecked in the collision with the stolen car in which the boys were fleeing.

Officials plan to give the youths an early hearing on a charge of robbing the service station of R. T. Cropley at 401 Primrose Rd., Burlingame. San Leandro officials have placed a "hold" charge against the three youths and will file a robbery charge against them if they are not convicted here.

Probation officials decided the county jail a safer place to hold the youthful prisoners than the antiquated juvenile detention home.

Marjorie Rippel

Mrs. Marjorie Rippel, 46, 1333 Walnut St., San Carlos, died Friday at a San Mateo hospital following a long period of illness.

Mrs. Rippel leaves her husband, Henry C. A. Rippel; two daughters, Mrs. Cynthia Feeken of Minnesota and Adeline Rippel of San Carlos; her mother, Mrs. Cynthia Griggs of San Francisco; two sisters, Mrs. G. E. Edwards of Roseville and Mrs. Clara Goor of Sacramento; and one brother, Wesley Griggs of San Francisco. Mrs. Rippel was a native of Sacramento and a member of Indianola Council 176, Degree of Pocahontas.

The funeral was conducted Monday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. Jesse Lacklen of the Methodist Church. Services were held in the Layng & Tinney Funeral Home, and interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery, San Jose.

At Garfield School

Tuesday the Garfield Parent Teacher's Assn. had "Room Mothers' Teas" at the school to enable the parents of students to meet the teachers.

The primary department parents were asked to go to their child's room at 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock. Upper grades were received in the school rooms at 3:20 o'clock.

The affair is given annually as a "get acquainted" tea. Following inspection of the rooms all mothers joined in the auditorium, where tea will be served.

A One-Man Picket

The "friendly Southern Pacific" paid off Saturday to an aggressive Redwood City ship clerk who established a one-man picket line at its Market St., ticket office.

Rex Benham, 504 Roosevelt, charged the company with losing a Taylor-Tot belonging to his year-old daughter, Marylee. The item, he claims, was checked when Mr. and Mrs. Benham and the child boarded the Daylight for Glendale on Wednesday. Came Glendale and no Taylor-Tot.

Benham said he reported the loss immediately, but got no immediate action.

Saturday he opened negotiations with the claim department in San Francisco.

"They just said it was 'too bad,' and to come back in 30 or 60 days," Benham said.

He took direct action.

Armed with a sign which read: "The Friendly S.P. but don't check your baggage with them. They'll steal or lose the Taylor-Tot right out from under your baby," he paraded in front of the main S.P. office for an hour and a half.

No one observed the picket line to the extent of staying out of the building, Benham reported, but he talked to plenty of ticket purchasers on their way in. Soon E. V. Lewis, the head of the claims department opened conversations with the Redwood City man.

Benham settled for $16.50 for the Taylor-Tot, plus $18 for a day's wages at overtime. The company issued a check for $34.50. Mrs. Benham is shopping for another Taylor-Tot.

During the present waterfront strike Benham's work week as a ship clerk has been limited to three days, all on army, navy and UNRRA cargoes.

A Democratic Rally

Outlining the program he will work for if elected San Mateo County's assemblyman, Evans A. Fletcher spoke Friday to an audience of more than 40 San Bruno women who will act as precinct organizers.

On the program with Fletcher at the buffet luncheon held at the American Legion Hall in San Bruno were other speakers to discuss candidacies and state propositions apeparing on the Nov. 5 ballot.

Fletcher, a former city councilman of Redwood City, discussed the situation of the state's schools in detail and went over his program point by point.

The meeting was arranged by Mrs. Vivien Hunting, chairman of the San Bruno Democratic Women's Club.

Robert Peckham of Sunnyvale, chairman of the Eighth Congressional District Democratic Organization, spoke on the qualifications and experience of other party candidate: Will Rogers Jr. for U. S. senator, John F. Shelley for lieutenant governor, and Edmund G. Brown for attorney general.

Frank M. Olson of San Mateo spoke on the state propositions and Mrs. Frances K. Otto of Burlingame on the anti-cross filing petitions now being circulated.

A Crime Wave

A wave of thefts of building materials from unfinished houses brought a warning Saturday from Menlo Park Police Chief Jack Yount.

Lumber, millwork, kitchen sinks, hand basins, laundry tubs and all types of plumbing frequently are being reported stolen, he said.

The situation is serious enough, he said, to hire a watchman for each new house under construction until the house is occupied.

Yount said police officers are instructed to check all new houses under construction as often as possible, but they can't be everywhere at once.

The police chief urged persons noticing anyone suspicious around new houses to report the incident to police immediately.

"Even though it should be the owner moseying around the new house nothing would be lost," the chief declared. "He usually would thank us for checking."

Chief Yount said many communities now are experiencing waves of building material thefts. Urging citizens to co-operate, he pointed out that if a community gets a reputation for being alert to the thefts, the thieves will go elsewhere; but, if the community becomes known as an easy place to steal, they will be attracted.

Some Fledgling Eagles

Six members were initiated into the Redwood City Aerie 418, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Friday night during ceremonies in the IOOF Hall.

New members are Ensign J. L. Yetka, Al McLaren, J. R. Thomas, Gene J. Francesconi, Bert Nuss and Sam Scafani.

Hilton Gibson, Al Warren and Jim Milam were named to a New Year's Eve party committee.

Col. Dave Schutz reported that the Eagles had surpassed their quota in the 1946 Redwood City Community Chest drive.

Roy Yeager, recently named deputy organizer for California, was a guest, and outlined the activities of his office.

The aerie stood in silent tribute to John J. Borges, who died Wednesday. The Eagles performed the final rites at the funeral Saturday morning.

Presbyterian Church

The former parsonage of the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church is being painted inside and out, and furniture is being collected, in preparation for turning the house into a youth center.

The Rev. Don Emerson Hall, pastor of the church, said Saturday the youth center should be opened for use in about two weeks.

The Planning Commission

Horace Hills of Sharp Park, president of the Rockaway Beach Quarry Assn., Friday, admitted at a County Planning Commission hearing that he was moving sand in violation of his permit but warned that if "I were not operating sand, every concrete dealer in San Mateo County would be forced to shut down."

In view of the housing shortage and the extensive construction in the county, Hills added, "that would be a calamity."

Hills' statement came during the planning commission's hearing on a resolution that the quarry's use permit be revoked, due to violation of a clause forbidding the removal of sand from the beach.

Planning Commission Secy. Frank Skillman quoted the clause in the permit, granted Aug. 5, 1941, by the board of supervisors, which expressly denied the firm permission to move sand from Rockaway Beach. Skillman introduced photographs of tractors moving sand along the water's edge.

During a heated debate Hills denied that his firm was operating on Rockaway Beach. He admitted moving sand on the firm's own property, and on 88 acres leased from the Pacific Portland Cement Co.

F. E. Hoffman, Hills' attorney, and Charles F. Prail, attorney for the cement firm, contended that permit's denial of right to move sand on Rockaway Beach applied only to the specific public area known by that name, and not to the nearby strips of beach.

Ronald Campbell, advisor to the commission, held that the permit applied to the entire strip of beach and was granted for only rock operations. In this, he was supported by Martin A. Poss, who is also a member of the board of supervisors. Poss said the firm was denied permission to move sand because that would create erosion which would be harmful to property owners in the residential area.

Asked by the commission for an opinion on the controversial clause in the permit, Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel E. Sullivan backed Skillman by ruling that the permit was conditional, the condition being that no sand be moved.

It was then that Hills warned of what he called "disaster" to the building industry should he be forced to suspend sand operations. He has a large sandpile on which he can draw, he said, but that would be exhausted in less than two months. He claimed to be the largest supplier of sand on the Peninsula, and he said that suspending his operations would stop the only major source of sand.

The commission postponed action on the resolution to revoke Hills' permit, ordered him to stop sand operations on the beach and recommended that he file application for a permit to move sand by the commission's next meeting.

Earlier, the commission held the second hearing on the rezoning of the Crocker Estate property near Brisbane from a residential to an industrial area.

Edward Kennedy headed a delegation of 20 Brisbane residents who appeared at the meeting to protest the proposed rezoning.

Kennedy told the board that residents wished assurances from the Crocker Estate Co. that no plants of an objectionable nature would be permitted.

William Morton, treasurer of the Crocker Estate Co., explained that the area would be broken down for light industrial and heavy industrial uses, and that certain types of industry would be barred from each, depending on noise, smoke and odor.

The commission postponed action and recommended that Kennedy's group meet with Morton on which industries should be specifically barred.

A Fortune Distributed

The will of Frank Kennedy, wealthy San Francisco investor and business man, was filed for probate with the county clerk of court here Saturday.

Mr. Kennedy, whose home had been at 2241 Forest View Ave., Hillsborough, died in San Francisco on Oct. 4.

Mrs. Kennedy, and Mark C. Elworthy of San Francisco were named co-executors of the will, which was dated Mar. 16, 1944.

In the will Mr. Kennedy had set up three trusts from income on royalties and leases on oil, gas and hydrocarbon holdings. Two of the trusts are to his widow and daughter, Polly, and the third includes a number of charitable bequests and scholarships at a number of universities and hospitals for medical and scientific research.

The will did not give the value of the estate.

A Childish Prank

Stanford police this week are investigating a raid on the campus Saturday night that resulted in a 6-foot "SC" burnt in the lawn next to the Memorial Arch and the same letters painted in red in the side of the illumination laboratory next to the women's gymnasium.

Police Chief Gordon Davis indicated that police "may be able to identify" the persons responsible. He said they were "pretty young" and doubted if they were from the University of Santa Clara.

Boy Scout Happenings

Philip N. Lilienthal, president of the San Mateo County Area Boy Scout Council, this week issued an appeal to all parents and scouters of the county to support the Community Chest.

"Failure to secure the necessary funds will curtail the activities of the youth agencies of the county," Lilienthal declared.

"'Everybody benefits—everybody give' is more than a slogan; it is a fact," he said, pointing out that studies indicate 75 out of every 100 families benefit directly from such organizations as the Boy Scouts, and that approximately 80 per cent of the money contributed to the Community Chest is spent by youth-serving agencies.

"Parents of boys benefiting by the scout program should give the heartiest support to the Community Chest fund campaign now in progress," Lilienthal concluded.

With a December round-up rally to climax their efforts, 110 units of the San Mateo County Boy Scout Council will conduct a campaign between now and the end of the year to enlist more boys in scout ranks. The membership drive is planned to coincide with a similar nation-wide program.

At present, six out of every 10 San Mateo County boys at the various scout age levels are connected with the movement. Since the first of the year, 16 new units have been organized under the leadership of Edwin Foss, chairman of the council organization and extension committee. To aid in increasing this number, all county units will schedule open house meetings during the remainder of 1946, inviting all boys interested in the various kinds of scouting to attend and participate in launching a continuous round of activities to carry through 1947.

December's rally will be devoted to welcoming new members and awarding of special ribbons to those units which have met their membership goals.

Churches and church parishes, schools, community centers, civic groups and organized groups of citizens are eligible to sponsor scout troops or cub packs. The former are open to boys 12 years of age and older, while the latter reach boys between the ages of 9 and 12. Senior scouting includes sea, air and explorer units and is for young men 15 and older.

Round table discussion meetings for county scoutmasters and cubmasters will be held this week for the planning of the 1947 program, as well as the December rally. Southern district leaders met Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, at Sequoia High School; central district leaders Thursday evening, Oct. 24, at scout headquarters, Burlingame; northern district leaders will meet Wednesday, Oct. 30, at the scout office, San Bruno.

Training courses in program planning will be conducted for troop committees in the three county districts during November, Tom Reynolds, council training committee chairman, announced yesterday. Sessions for southern committeemen are scheduled for Nov. 7 and 14 at Sequoia High School. Central committees will meet Nov. 12 and 19 at St. Paul's Church, Burlingame, and northern committeemen Nov. 13 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, San Bruno.

Reynolds has also arranged a course for all county commissioners Monday, Nov. 4, at Burlingame scout headquarters.

Patrol leaders from all troops in the county will participate in a weekend training course Friday and Saturday, Oct. 25 and 26, at San Mateo County Memorial Park, under the leadership of Barney Williams, veteran council scouter.

The scouts will gain first-hand knowledge of their duties and responsibilities as patrol leaders when they hike from the Memorial Park to the new scout camp near the Butano Forest. There they will construct a model campsite, thus acquainting themselves with problems of camp organization and maintenance.

Participating scouts have been instructed to meet at the Redwood City Greyhound bus depot Friday, Oct. 25, at 6 p.m., bringing with them flashlights and other necessary camping equipment, all in one pack to facilitate comfort on the hike.

LEADERS' ROUND TABLE

Southern division scoutmasters and assistants conducted a round table discussion meeting Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. at the Redwood City scout office. Scout Comsr. William P. Stevens presided over the meeting, purpose of which was to plan troop programs for the balance of 1946.

At the same time, cubmasters and assistants held a similar meeting in the scout office to plan for a cubmasters' training course, a district cub investiture ceremony and pack programs for the rest of the year. Cub Comsr. Will Rogers will be in charge of the evening.

Troop 139 of Redwood City pitched camp near Woodside on their overnight expedition last weekend. Members journeyed to the site by truck, organized the camp and prepared dinner. Several scouts passed their tests in firebuilding, cooking and the use of knife and axe. Following a "snipe hunt" for two tenderfoots who were left "holding the bag," scouts gathered around the campfire to swap stories, skits and songs. Camp was broken after breakfast Sunday morning. Scouts participating were Mickey Kelleher, Jim Peterson, Seymour Abrams, Peter Bulkley, Robert Berglund, Thom Rhorabough and Scoutmaster Dalton Lewis.

Troop 105 of Redwood City enjoyed a talk on first aid by Mr. Diwan of the Redwood City Fire Dept., when the scouts met this week to make plans for a first aid course. Members are also planning a visit to the San Mateo County Historical Society room at the junior college.

Troop 160 of Redwood City elected the following officers at its regular meeting this week: Art England, Bob Gledhill, Boyd Mickley, Duncan Reynard, patrol leaders; Wallace Hall, quartermaster; Lee Hall, assistant quartermaster; Franco Erspamer, librarian; Bruce Cereghino, scribe.

At a recent meeting of Pack 22 of Redwood City, graduation exercises were held for Cubs Fred Davis and Larry Gagnon, who were presented to members of Troop 122 and their scoutmaster, Joseph Rao Jr. Advancements within sub ranks were made by Michael Loftus, Michael Brady, Paul Sample, Bob Geddie, George Gooding and Thomas Gooding. Noel Enguehardt was welcomed into the pack as a new Bobcat. Honored guests of the evening were Cub Comsr. Will Rogers and Mrs. Rogers.

Business Women

Climaxing 'National Business Womens' Week," a luncheon at the Cozy Corner Restaurant, Brewster and El Camino Real, was attended by 30 members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's Club on Saturday. The table was decorated with tuberous begonias, centered by a cake bearing the lettering "Greetings to Business and Professional Women's Club of Redwood City."

Present at the gathering were Thelma Eberhardt, president of the club; Helen Harper, Anna Radivoj, Lelah L. Butts, Margaret Doxsee, Mamie Chase, Kathleen Lahey, Minnie Solari, Nelle Miramontes, Florence Magruder, Edith Letts, Anna Bennett Robb, Lillious Martin, Vera Griffith, May Simpson, Fidelia Dunn, Mabel Jacobsen, Evelyn Carlson, Lyla Meek, May Barr Long, Martha Keefe, Mrs. Kogelschatz, Lucy Balsamo, Martha Valenti, Lauretta Hodge, Eleanor Faure, Frances Niedermuller, Alice Reinhard, Flora Perry and Magdalene Gerbrick.

Misses Lelah L. Butts, Kathleen Lahey and Magdalene Gerbrick attended the Redwood Empire Dist. Fall Conference held at the Plaza Hotel in Napa, over the weekend. The Redwood Empire Dist. consists of BPW clubs in Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Solano, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties. Lelah L. Butts is a past president of the Santa Rosa BPWC, and assisted in the organization of several clubs in these counties.

Halloween Dance

On Saturday night, Oct. 26, Halloween will be celebrated traditionally in Redwood City, when all members of the Redwood City Woman's Club and their guests will attend an old-fashioned country dance at the clubhouse, Clinton and Broadway.

Cornstalks, witches and pumpkins will provide atmosphere in the ballroom as the orchestra, complete with Western costumes, swings out the first tune promptly at 9 o'clock.

Many informal gatherings before the party are now being arranged by members as they invite their friends to join them in an evening of dancing.

Although not required, it is hoped that those attending will wear old time or comical costumes.

The Merry League of the Woman's Club is planning the affair under the chairmanship of Mrs. Howard P. Anderson. Mrs. Paul Leigh will head the refreshment committee and decorations are in charge of Mrs. Kenneth Steiner.

There will also be a fortune teller, apple cider for thirsty dancers and refreshments will be served later in the evening.

"No reservations are necessary—just come and join in the fun," said Mrs. Anderson today.

Courthouse News

A petition for letters of administration and termination of joint tenancy was filed in the San Mateo County Clerk's office Monday by George E. Dunn, publisher of the Half Moon Bay Review and Pescadero Pebble, in the estate of his wife, Amelia M. Dunn, who died May 6, 1946.

No value was set on the estate, and the heirs were listed as Dunn, his two sons, Albert A. Dunn of Half Moon Bay, and George M. Dunn of Burlingame, and a daughter, Mae M. Dunn of Half Moon Bay.

The Prowler

"NO," SAID THE GIRL'S mother, "you can't go. I told you definitely that you would have to do your hour's piano practicing every day, and you haven't done it today."

Later on, after having spent 15 minutes at the piano, the youngster renewed her appeal. "Can't I go now, mother?" she asked. "I've finished my practicing.

"You've practiced only 15 minutes, and you know you must put in an hour," said the mother adamantly.

"Oh," said the girl, "but my full hour has been done. Three other kids in the block said they would practice 15 minutes apiece for me."

A SAN FRANCISCO business man, who was in Fresno a few days ago, barely made a train connection when time came to start for home. He was speeding to the station in a taxi when the train was proceeding to pull out. The man sprinted the last stretch, and swung onto the moving train to the tune of cheers of onlooking passengers and congratulations from the conductor.

"Where do you think you are going?" the conductor asked.

"San Francisco," answered the breathless man.

"This train, said the conductor, "is going to Los Angeles."

A FELLOW TOWNSMAN IN the days when I lived in Merced always made it a point when entraining at the Oakland mole for home to inquire which was the train for Fresno. The main line trains to Fresno stopped at Merced. But Fresno, being a bigger town, was the one he preferred to mention to strangers. He imagined it would give him greater prestige.

On one occasion when he asked which was the train to Fresno, he got aboard the one pointed out by a railroader. The train went to Fresno all right, but not on the main line. It was the west side train that made the circuit via Los Banos, not coming as close as 30 miles to Merced.

A COLLECTOR OF BONERS in the news columns submits the following gathered from various newspapers:

"Mr. and Mrs. John Smith are rejoicing over an eight-pound daughter, the sixth child since Saturday."

"A musical program was presented during the afternoon. Mrs. Melvin Talson, accompanied by Mrs. C. Fred Brown, sank two numbers."

"The bride was attired in a white wedding gown fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice trimmed in iridescent bedding."

"Mrs. Dick Baldwin has been the inspiration of several post-nuptial courtesies. Mrs. Cellaneous' gifts were received by the bride when Mrs. Douglas Hines by entertained."

"Mrs. J. P. Miller gave a talk on 'Personal Devils.' Seventeen were present, including Mr. Miller."

EVERY METROPOLITAN city has a number of stores which, for successive years covering a long span of time, have offered their annual and seasonal so-called "bargain" sales. On those occasions such intemperate announcements as the following are commonly seen: "Holocaust of Bargains"; "Prices Mercilessly Slashed"; "Costs Ignored and Profits Disregarded at These Unheard-of Prices"; "Unprecedented Savings"; "Greatest Values in the History of Merchandising."

The public is told by the sales promoters that the bargains offered in the current sale are greater than anything ever known in the past, and that they can never be duplicated again.

Save up a few of those ejaculatory announcements over successive years, and you will discover that prices that reached such a sensationally low level a few years ago that the savings could never be equaled again have nevertheless been declared on each following year to have achieved yet lower levels "quality considered."

I wonder sometimes what the promoters of those sales think of the average intelligence of the buying public. It stands to reason that articles selling at, say, 25 cents or less, could not be subjected to "merciless price slashings" for greater and greater value giving year after year indefinitely, and still be sold for any price whatever. Ultimately the dealer would reach the point where the only way in which he could exceed his alleged value-giving of the past would be by paying people bigger bonuses each year to carry the stuff away.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS: "Anyhow, it's been fun."

Coast Guardsmen

J. Howard Walzer of San Mateo, commander of the Coast Guard League, Peninsula Chapter 1, thanked the members and friends on Friday night for the fine turn out to the chapter's first public function. The occasion was a bridge and whist party held at the San Carlos city hall.

With posters placed around the hall urging membership in the Coast Guard League, Walzer invited any ex-coast guardsmen in the area to become a member of this chapter. The league is composed, he said, of active members who were discharged from either the Coast Guard or the Coast Guard Auxiliary and as associate members any former or present civilian employes. It is formed, Commander Walzer said, to further the interests of the Coast Guard.

The commander introduced Capt. S. B. Johnson of Moss Beach, retired officer of the United States Coast Guard, who is district commander of the league. Also introduced was Walter W. Carr of Atherton, former commander of the Belmont Port Security of the Coast Guard.

Following cards and the distribution of prizes in the form of many "hard to get items" homemade cake and coffee was served, assisted by all members.

The committee included Walzer, Al Sagehorn, George Sheridan, Rudy Thuor and Jim Rae of San Carlos; Leon Strauss of Redwood City and Alfred H. Moore of San Bruno. Helping as hostesses were Mrs. Sheridan and Mrs. R. J. Edwards.

Children planning to attend are Barbara and June Randall, Beth Rosener, Tony Siltan, Michael and Stephen Foz, John and Jimmy Niven, Patsy Dennis, Noree Robinette, Ann Black and Susie Castner. The children will be accompanied by Mrs. Winston Black and Mrs. Irving Randall.

Delayed Hearing

John Nigro, 41, Redwood City man who had pleaded guilty of operating a bookie joint in San Carlos, Monday filed a motion for probation in the superior court of Judge Aylett R. Cotton. The motion was referred to probation authorities for a report.

Nigro pleaded guilty on Sept. 27 to the bookmaking charge. He was arrested in a raid Aug. 29 by San Carols police upon Bill's Windmill, an establishment operated by William Nunns. The case against Nunns has been dismissed for lack of evidence.

San Mateo County draft boards will be consolidated and will work from a central office in San Mateo at 218 B St., according to George Paul, chief clerk of the local draft board.

Paul believes that the transfer to the new San Mateo office will take place at the end of this week.

Including the Redwood City board, the draft boards of Menlo Park, Burlingame and Daly City will all be located in San Mateo.

A Female Accompiice

A young wife who had pleaded guilty to a burglary charge Monday was censured and sentenced to three years' probation by Superior Court Judge Edmund Scott.

The woman was blonde Mrs. LaVange Turnbough, 20, of Palo Alto, who Monday appeared before Judge Scott on her motion for probation.

She told the judge that she had accompanied a man friend last May 4 when the latter entered the Atlas Home Supply Co. in San Mateo and stole tools valued at $150. The man now is serving time in Santa Clara County jail for another offense.

Mrs. Turnbough protested that she did not know the man was going to commit a crime, that he had asked use of her car, and that she had driven him to the building and accompanied him. She said that she carried some of the stolen articles around in her car for several days.

Judge Scott scolded her severely for "going out with another man while her husband was at sea." Her husband, a former merchant seaman, is Edmond A. Turnbough of Palo Alto. The couple was married New Year's Eve, Dec. 31, 1944. They now live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Roberts.

In addition to the three years' probation, Judge Scott ordered that she make restitution of the $150, the value of the tools taken. "And don't have your husband pay it," the judge said. "Go out and get yourself a job."

Redwood Firemen

Redwood City firemen extinguished grass and automobile fires Sunday. At 1:22 p.m. they put out a grass fire at Bradford St. and Jefferson Ave. and 3:38 p.m. they put out a $25 damage fire in an auto at Broadway and Main Sts.

The auto was owned by Floyd Young, 420 7th Ave., Menlo Park. There was no damage from the grass fire.

FOR VETERANS' WELFARE

VOTE "YES" ON PROPOSITION 2!

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans urge you to vote "YES" on Proposition 2 on the November ballot.

This measure will legalize greyhound racing in California — under strict State supervision — and turn over 4 per cent of all track wagers to a Veterans' Fund administered by the State Department of Veterans' Affairs.

It will perform a distinct service for California veterans. It will guarantee ADEQUATE FINANCING of State-sponsored welfare and rehabilitation activities, including support of the Veterans' Home at Yountville. It will relieve the taxpayer of the burden of paying for these services; greyhound racing will pay the bill instead.

California veterans ask you to support them in this campaign.

Let's Carry Through - Vote "YES" on 2!

They'll Fight Polio

Alvin E. Hewitt of Burlingame, vice president of the California Manufacturers' Assn., has been named chairman for Northern California of the 1946 Sister Elizabeth Kenny Campaign which begins Nov. 18.

Jan Demma of Redwood City is chairman for San Mateo County, Mrs. D. B. Dixon of San Carlos is head of that area, and Mrs. William C. Dooley of Half Moon Bay is chairman of her local area.

The local committees will conduct campaigns as part of the statewide appeal for funds to combat polio through the technique developed by the Australian nurse, Sister Kenny.

Half of the $2,000,000 set as a goal for the national drive will remain in the state chapters to be used in community fights against infantile paralysis. The other half of the drive's proceeds will be used by the national organization to enlarge the Kenny institute at Minneapolis, to create scholarships for student technicians, and to conduct an extensive research program.

National chairman for this year's drive is Kate Smith, famed radio singer, while Bing Crosby is chairman of the executive commiteee and Rosalind Russell is women's chairman.

Cairo, South Africa, London and Paris are just a few of the spots to be visited by Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Mein Jr. of Woodside, when they leave their home in Woodside on Nov. 9 for New York.

From New York they plan to sail for London on the Queen Elizabeth on Nov. 19. From London they will go to Paris — back to London and then fly to Cairo. From Cairo they will travel down the West Coast of Africa to Johannesburg, South Africa.

The Mein home in Woodside, which was one of those visited on the recent Garden Club tour, is built on South African architecture as the Meins formerly resided in that country. The trip will be for business as well as pleasure.

They expect to be gone until March, 1947.

The S.M. Council

The San Mateo City Council, in a four-hour meeting characterized by a courtroom atmosphere, Monday turned down the application of H. W. Regan of Burlingame to build a service station on the northwest corner of El Camino Real and Third Ave. in San Mateo.

In its action, the council concurred unanimously with the opinion of the San Mateo Planning Commission which a week ago recommended denial of Regan's application.

A crowd estimated at about 400 had filled every available seat along the sides of the council room and crowded four and five deep in the entrances to hear the proceedings.

To Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Griffin, 901 Waltermire St., Belmont, a son was born at Mills Hospital on Oct. 18.

The World Capitol

The San Francisco Bay Area stood ready today to press its bid for the permanent home of the United Nations as the international peace organization prepared to consider five alternate "World Capital" sites in New York's Westchester County.

Possibility arose opposition by some residents of Westchester to establishing UN's future home there might reopen the entire site question.

This was disclosed by a UN Site Commission spokesman during a news conference regarding the commission's report recommending the five alternate sites which will be submitted to the general assembly for consideration.

Both San Francisco and the city of New York are prepared to make sites available to the United Nations if the assembly does not approve any of the Westchester recommendations.

Robert Kenny, attorney general of California, who is heading a San Francisco delegation, said that if the assembly reopens the question he is prepared to offer three areas in San Francisco's environs.

(The sites most frequently mentioned include the Crystal Springs area owned by the City of San Francisco, the Mills Estate, both of which are in San Mateo County, and an area in the Moraga Valley.)

Kenny said he would emphasize that the United Nations would be able to build its permanent home in the San Francisco area for 25 per cent less than in New York City or New York State.

"There is considerable interest that the general assembly consider minimizing the cost of building its permanent home," Kenny said. "The California presentation will be able to show that housing and building costs are 25 per cent less than in New York.

"If the United Nations takes the responsibility for housing its own personnel we have a community with low building costs."

The site commission report points out that some of the Westchester opposition has been over the displacement of its residents by the new world home.

"There will be no displacement if one of our sites is chosen," Kenny said. "There are only jackrabbits and artichokes. It's virgin land. We have the very cloth to fit the pattern cut out by the site commission."

The attorney general said the legal stipulations made by the commission are all satisfactory to the State of California.

Sir Angus Fletcher of Great Britain, chairman of the site commission, said at a news conference that if the general assembly decided to reopen the headquarters question and consider San Francisco and New York it would probably be another year before actual excavation on the permanent site could begin.

Parking Plan Under Study

A resolution of preliminary determination to construct an automobile parking lot on Perry St. was passed by city councilmen Monday. The resolution calls for the issuance of 1915 Act bonds should property owners in the assessment district to be formed elect not to pay cash.

Acting Mayor C. C. Armstrong objected to the issuance of 1915 Act bonds. He pointed out that the city as a whole was responsible for the bonds should property owners fail to make payments prescribed.

City Atty. Paul A. McCarthy said that in his opinion there was no danger the bonds would not be paid inasmuch as most properties in the proposed assessment district would be business properties.

Councilmen W. M. (Bill) Werder and Floyd D. Granger approved the 1915 bonds and were joined by Councilman George McNulty who said he was against 1915 bonds but would approve the proposition this time on the say so of the city attorney.

Armstrong had pointed out that the city had lost money during depression years when taxpayers as a whole had to pay on 1915 bonds which had benefited only certain assessment districts.

There were only four councilmen present when the resolution was passed.

Councilmen decided to move on the project under terms of a 1913 Municipal Improvement Act passed by the California legislature. They took this action when property owners in the area refused to petition councilmen to have the project started.

A Charity Ball

The lights are to go on for one night in the fabulous 95-room Carolands mansion in Hillsborough when the elite of Peninsula and San Francisco society will gather at a formal ball for the sake of charity.

Permission to use the mammoth ballroom of the mansion has been granted the Burlingame-San Mateo-Hillsborough group of the recently-formed Stanford Junior Convalescent Auxiliary. Proceeds will be devoted to the work of the auxiliary.

Date of the ball, to be held shortly after the holiday season, will be determined at a meeting to be held late this week by a recently-named committee. Members of the committee are Mrs. Douglas Dorn, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. William Deveraux, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Marron Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hover and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morris.

The affair is to be strictly invitational and it is said that the committee will include on the list sufficient Bay Area socialites to fill the spacious ballroom.

The committee is now busily at work arranging for the affair and plans announcement of the date before the end of the week.

The Carolands mansion and its surrounding acreage was sold recently. Unless present plans of the owners are changed, the mansion is due to be demolished by wreckers.

HALT S. C. FIRE

The San Carlos Fire Dept. Tuesday extinguished a fire at 7:17 p.m. on the outside of a building at 607 Old County Rd. which was evidently started by a short circuit in a plugged-in extension cord left by workers in the building. Damage to the cord, a crate on which it was coiled, and scorching to the side of the building resulted.

The Ship Strike

A break appeared Tuesday in the 22-year-old national maritime strike which has paralyzed nearly all American shipping, Associated Press reports.

In New York leaders of the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the East and Gulf Coast operators signed a contract to settle their crippling maritime walkout—but that did not mean an end of the general shipping tieup.

The operators have not reached agreement with the second union involved in the dispute—the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots Union, and a CIO union spokesman said the engineers would continue to respect the AFL union's picket lines. The agreement also must be ratified by both the union membership and the 44 shipping companies and representatives of agents and operators. A CIO spokesman said he would recommend that the general membership of MEBA ratify the agreement reached today.

The AFL union planned to resume negotiations with the operators later Tuesday and an agreement and ratification would leave only the West Coast strikebound. The unions are to negotiate with the Pacific Coast operators later.

Terms of the agreement between the MEBA and operators were not immediately disclosed. Wages were the chief issues in the dispute between the operators and both unions.

In other continuing labor disputes, new efforts were to be made to settle the lengthy general trucking strike in New York City and the 22-day-old transit tieup in Columbus, O.

There was a measure of relief in the New York trucking walkout as 500 A&P food stores opened their stores for the first time since Sept. 14, following an agreement between the chain's contract carriers and striking AFL drivers granting increased wages.

A Strauss Festival

The Strauss festival, with Oscar Strauss and his concert orchestra, presenting the music of Johann Strauss, Joseph Strass, Oscar Straus and Erwin Strauss, will be the first concert of the San Francisco Opera Assn. concert division season. It is dated for Oct. 28 at the Opera House.

Oscar Strauss himself will be principal conductor at the concert. Among the numbers to be played under his baton are a medley of Strauss waltzes and excerpts from his own popular "The Chocolate Soldier." Ezra Rachlin is associate conductor.

The gay vocal Strauss melodies will be sung by a trio of brilliant soloists. They are Carolyn Long and Barbara Moser, sopranos, and Howard Van Den Burg, baritone. Erwin Strauss will be piano soloist, playing his arrangement of Johann Strauss' "Slightly Viennese," a waltz mosaic for piano and orchestra.

FPHA Halts Bids

The Federal Public Housing Authority depot at the Port of Redwood City will be discontinued after Jan. 1 except for "cleanup" activities, and the FPHA will have completed its purchasing program in California and Nevada and will withdraw from competition with private builders for construction materials by the end of October, FPHA Comsr. Dillon S. Meyer said Monday.

At the same time he declared cost limits placed on public housing construction by the FPHA law were preventing more public housing under the existing program, with new legislation necessary to lift the cost ceiling to a point where construction was possible

California, he acknowledged, has a "drastic" housing problem and one which constitutes 75 per cent of the authority's work in the region.

By Nov. 1, however, FPHA will have placed all its orders and priorities in the region, and will be out of the market for war surplus and open market materials purchases.

Myer said California had a demand for 29,000 housing units, on order on an "if and when" basis dependent upon an increase in the construction cost allowable.

Likewise, Myer said, there are 100 projects in the county either partially completed or set to go which are still being held up by cost limitations. These figures are now approximately $5000 a unit, or $1200 a room. Until new legislation is passed, he said, there is nothing the FPHA can do about completing them.

The Wagner - Ellender - Taft Housing Bill, now in House committee, would allow the authority to increase its construction costs to about $1500 a room.

Myer said he would like to go ahead on the 29,000 California units for which there is a demand, but until the cost ceiling is raised it will be impossible. The 100 projects now partially completed were mostly started before the war.

The nation's housing problem now embraces both city and suburban areas, Myer said, and is no longer only an urban problem.

4 Automobile Wrecks

Helen Burnett, 40, of 2367 Poplar St., Palo Alto, suffered serious injuries Tuesday night when she was struck by a car driven by Harry A. Smith, 63, of 414 St. Francis Way, Redwood City. She was taken to Palo Alto Hospital where she is being examined for a possible fractured pelvis and leg.

She was crossing El Camino Real near Edgewood Rd. when the accident occurred.

Three persons were injured in a series of accidents on Bayshore Hwy. near 19th Ave. in San Mateo at 6 o'clock Tuesday started by a head-on collision between two vehicles.

Henry J. Watts, 57, of San Leandro was the driver of a car which collided with another operated by William P. McDowell, 39, of 1900 Bryant St., Palo Alto. Watts, and Frank Fernandez, a passenger in McDowell's car, sustained minor injuries and were given treatment at the scene.

Mrs. Eugene Bowers, 25, of Hunters Point, also was slightly injured when the car operated by her husband was involved in a series of rear end accidents due to the first smashup. Three other cars were involved, but no one was injured.

Half Moon Bay News

Proposal to incorporate Half Moon Bay was disclosed Tuesday on the day of a public hearing in the supervisors' chambers on the proposed incorporation of Millbrae.

The Half Moon Bay Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Monday decided to call a public meeting on the proposal next week. Date will be set later.

If residents of the community vote in favor of incorporation at the public meeting, proponents will start circulating petitions, Justice of the Peace Manuel J. Bettencourt, past president of the chamber of commerce and one of the backers of the plan, stated.

Half Moon Bay is now divided into five separate districts—police, fire, sewer, public utilities and street lighting. Each district has its own separate program and operates on separate budgets. Their interests overlap, however, Bettencourt declared.

Incorporation would make for more efficient government and less expense, Bettencourt said. He stated the time "is now ripe" for Half Moon Bay to have self government.

The population of the Half Moon Bay area is about 2000. Adjacent territory north of Half Moon Bay was built up considerably during the war and proponents want to include this area in the incorporation. The incorporation, if carried out, would include Half Moon Bay proper, Arleta Park and Miramontes Tract.

Among the chief backers of the plan in addition to Judge Bettencourt are Ward Conway, Half Moon Bay business man and president of the chamber of commerce; Frank Pavlek, office director of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, and Charles O'Brien, manager of the Half Moon Bay branch of Bank of America.

County Treas. A. H. Sagehorn and a representative of the district attorney's office, probably Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel E. Sullivan, will attend next week's public meeting to explain the incorporation procedure.

A.V.C. Member Speaks

"Over in Germany everything all of us fought for is lost. We have established courts in Germany that would make Adolf Hitler hang his head in shame."

This assertion was made Tuesday night by Maj. Earl Carroll, a prosecutor at the notorious trial of U.S. Army officers and their staff charged with the brutal mistreatment of U.S. soldiers held prisoners at the replacement center at Litchfield, England.

"People in Germany disappear today just like they did in Hitler's day," he declared, speaking of the American Zone of Occupation.

In a dynamic two-hour speech blasting the military court-martial system of justice, Major Carroll told the incredible story of brutality and sadism of American prison guards to American soldiers which was brought to light at the Litchfield trials that ended last month. His talk last night in Children's Theater was sponsored jointly by the Stanford and Palo Alto Chapter of the American Veterans Committee.

The major, now a civilian, had been prosecutor at the Litchfield trials during late 1945 and early 1946. He was forced to resign, he said, in protest after he had insisted that the principal defendant, Col. James Killian, be tried for conspiracy after he had been convicted and "whitewashed" with no punishment other than a $500 fine.

"One American soldier was murdered at the Litchfield Prison. Perhaps two more were, but we were not able to prove it," he stated. He told how he had secured the testimony of prison personnel under Colonel Killian that guards armed with 18-inch clubs, .45 automatics, and gloves beat many prisoners into insensibility.

Carroll's main point was that the military system of justice violates human rights guaranteed us by the constitution. It provides the foundation for dictatorship. What has gone on during the war and still is going on in the American Occupied Zone of Germany in the name of military justice, he asserted, should be known by every American.

"You are no better than the people of Nazi Germany when you say 'I don't know what's going on.'. The people of Germany said that when Hitler was in power. It's your business to find out what's going on," he told his audience.

In one command cited by Carroll there were 700 trials, he said, the results of the trials were that every one of the 700 defendants was found guilty. The average length of the trial was 15 minutes. The average sentence was 7½ years, he said.

"The military philosophy is that when the general prefers charges against a man, that man must be convicted. He can't be acquitted. If he is acquitted, the general will lose face."

In civilian courts in the United States, he said, less than 10 per cent of the convictions are secured with the aid of statements or confessions signed by the defendants.

In the army, he charges, more than 90 per cent of the convictions are made on the basis of signed statements.

"How do they get the defendant to sign these statements—in many cases untrue statements? By using methods that hark back to the dark ages and the thumb-screw and the whip. They are secured by illegal means. They are secured by fraud, chicanery, force and coercion," he asserted.

"Unless you stop this march of military oppression, this country will find itself in the same position as Germany and Japan, where military power usurped civilian power."

Carroll will leave Sunday for Frankfurt, Germany, where, as a civilian, he will defend four accused men to be tried under the military system of justice. "Three of these men are civilians," he said.

Ben Taylor Is Here

Major Ben Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Grant Taylor, Whipple Rd., Redwood City, has completed more than a year's occupation duty in Austria and is home on a 45-day leave before returning to active duty at Camp Beale.

Major Taylor, a veteran of seven years' service, three of which were spent overseas, has been connected with army intelligence in Africa, Italy and France.

The PTA Congress

Members of the 17th District, Congress of Parents and Teachers, met at Jefferson Union High School in Daly City on Thursday, Oct. 17.

Supervisor of child guidance services of the San Francisco schools, Mrs. Alice Cotton Henry, spoke on "Child Guidance." Mrs. Henry said, "The basic principles are to be interested in children, and to be interested in helping children enjoy a happy childhood and to grow into well adjusted adulthood. The most important single factor as a child or as an adult lies in their feelings about things. Our feelings are not always based on facts, the basis of which, are set back in early childhood. If I were to use a text I would use "the sins of the parents are visited on their children, even unto the third and fourth generation."

Mrs. Henry outlined the normal development of a normal child, (1) pre-school period, (2) school age, and (3) adolescence, and gave a few not quite normal situations. She urged the group to have the best teachers possible in schools, to enlarge parent education programs, and to have child guidance clinics.

Reports were given by Miss Eleanore Throndsen, school health and summer round-up chairman, who stated that knowledge will help maintain the body in maximum vigor. Ralph Steele, social hygiene chairman, who urged parents to inform themselves first, and to support and encourage the teachers; and W. Earl Whitaker, mental hygiene chairman, who stressed the need for wholesomeness in thoughts of parents and children to add to the health habits faithfully practiced.

Findings compiled through the use of the San Mateo County tuberculosis X-ray mobile unit were given by Mrs. Ruth Close. She informed the group that every school, public and private, had been covered; 16,005 X-rays have been given in 11 months. Mrs. George Spanne described the work being done at El Portal School for Crippled Children and said volunteer help would be welcomed. Miss Pansy Jewett Abbott added that any financial assistance offered could be used for the school.

Jefferson Union High School choral group directed by C. McCarthy, presented a group of songs. Pledge of allegiance was led by a Brownie troop color guard from Woodrow Wilson School, Daly City.

A short business session was held with Mrs. M. G. Strohmeier presiding. Recommendations of the executive board (1) to buy an American flag for the district was passed, with Mrs. Oscar Larson, Mrs. W. H. Powers, and Mrs. C. N. Underwood, appointed to purchase the flag; (2) to change bylaws on number of delegates to state convention.

Mrs. Stella Jensen was named to select a committee to work with her on an amendment to the bylaws and to present the changes at the next district meeting.

Resignation of Mrs. F. L. Knuepfer as financial secretary was read and regretfully accepted, also resignation of Mrs. Emmet Jones as luncheon reservations chairman. Mrs. M. B. Armstrong, new luncheon reservations chairman, was introduced. Mrs. Strohmeier appointed a life membership committee consisting of Mrs. Faun Tuska, Mrs. J. M. Foley, and Mrs. C. N. Underwood. Literature on Proposition 3 on November ballot was distributed to unit presidents.

Past 17th District presidents introduced were Mrs. L. G. Owen, Mrs. George Bruns, Mrs. Stella Jensen, and Mrs. L. G. Evans. Henry C. Hall, member county board of education, was also introduced.

A greeting was extended by Stanford Hanna, district superintendent and principal of Jefferson Union High School. Character thought was read by Mrs. B. E. Meyers, character education chairman; Mrs. Garret Bradley announced 146 had registered for the day. The meeting was under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Foley, director of health.

Luncheon was served in the school cafeteria. Totem pole placecards were prepared by the art students of the school. Corsages for the district officers and guests were made by the school gardener and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Parodi. During the lunch hour Delbert Harter, a speaker from the National Assembly Bureau gave a humorous talk on his world travels. He closed with a serious thought on the many blessings and privileges we enjoy in our country and our obligations to preserve them for our children.

A Horsemen's Assn.

A Radio Broadcast

"Belmont is going to blossom out like a rose" said Mayor F. J. Furlong Jr. on Saturday morning, when he was interviewed by Jane Lee over radio station KPO on the "Woman's Magazine of the Air" program. Miss Lee was a guest at breakfast of the Church Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Belmont.

Belmont residents, mostly members of the church, who were interviewed centered their talk principally around the history and growth of the church. It was brought out that the Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopalian in denomination, but a community endeavor, was built in the 1860's and was first located east of the railroad tracks.

Among others who spoke was the Rev. Thomas Scott, who recently took over the pastorate of the church. He said there were plans to extend the social hall to accommodate the large church school and week-day school of religion. Mrs. Adela Vannier stated that she had worked with the church group practically all of her life and remembered the Reverend Brewer, who established St. Matthew's School in San Mateo, and conducted services at the Belmont Church. "Pupils walked from San Mateo to hear him," she said. Others heard were Mrs. Frank Cowden, whose father was instrumental in placing the stained glass window in the church; Mrs. David Williams, who was a Sunday School pupil in 1884; and Mrs. Scott Cowles, a Belmont registered nurse.

Mrs. David Horn, an active member of the Church of the Good Shepherd said they "all took a hand"; Mrs. Paul Miller Sr. said she had lived in the community for 27 years and the church hall had always been the social center. and Mrs. Caston Pope told of the activities of the Youth Council.

Mrs. James T. Healy, who said she was a newcomer, having lived in Belmont for only six years, told of two sons at the St. Joseph's Military Academy.

The hall was filled for the breakfast served before the broadcast. The tables were arranged with the usual well planned Belmont decor. Fruits and vegetables were used with many quaint figures fashioned out of them. These were made by Mrs. A. Menzin, chairman for the day.

Help Menlo Police

If you see something suspicious, report it to the police immediately, Menlo Park Police Chief Jack Yount urged citizens Monday.

If a car is involved, get the license number, make of car, color and style, he requested.

Many times cases that should take half an hour to solve take six weeks, he pointed out, because police aren't notified soon enough.

If a call comes in that a man is prowling around a residence, for example, an officer can investigate while the case is still fresh and often can apprehend the criminal in the act or while he is getting away. If the incident is reported the next day or later, the police don't have much to go on, according to the police chief.

He said persons often don't report to police because they don't want to get involved. But, he declared, they won't be involved in most cases. All they need to do is report the incident and the police will handle it from there. "An officer can just happen by," he suggested.

The police can't be everywhere at once, Chief Yount commented. They must have the co-operation of the people of the community and be able to rely on them to report irregularities.

In some cases, they may be called as witnesses. But, they should accept that as their public duty, Chief Yount asserted. If the situation were reversed, and their neighbor noticed someone prowling around their house, they certainly would want him to report the incident to the police and possibly serve as a witness, he added.

"For Jimmie and me Vote 'Yes' on 3"

Proposition 3 will relieve the teacher famine in California by guaranteeing public school teachers a minimum salary of $2400 a year. Local taxes will not be increased by this measure. State funds are available for this purpose.

Two hundred California organizations, including the following, urge you to vote "YES" on 3—Republican and Democratic Parties, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, AFL, CIO, Native Daughters and Native Sons, and P-TA.

And remember—when you vote "Yes" on 3, be sure to vote "No" on 13, which would further reduce present inadequate school appropriations.

Vote "YES" on 3!

Greenthumber's Grab Bag

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

Just read this letter, and compare with your own results. . . . From Oakland, it's Albert J. Vegt reporting: "You requested information on tomatoes. Well I get approximately 2000 pounds off 296 Pearson vines. They were really fine fruit. I sprayed twice with Bordeaux mixture, with about one tablespoon of arsenic before fruit started to form. I put them on poles and irrigated them three times. After picking 1000 pounds I gave them another good soaking and have another fine crop of green ones just turning. I thought sure I'd loose the whole crop for from about 8 inches the leaves started curling but blossoms set and formed good fruit.

"White flies and aphis attacked but didn't seem to do much damage. I am told my tomatoes are the most solid and flavorful people have been able to get and will not cook up.

"I give all the credit for my success to proper irrigation. Not too much, but plenty of water at the right time.

"Now about the Marcross corn. I mixed it with Golden Cross Bantam and Oregon, and the results were people came as far away as San Leandro to get my corn. It was a wonderful flavor. I also had good luck with my Indian corn. Am sealing it and the various kinds of stalks for Halloween and Thanksgiving decorations. The ears are rather large and the most gorgeous colors you ever saw.

"All in all, I am told I had the finest home grown garden in Oakland which goes to prove a policeman is fit for something besides an ornament. Huh?" (Yes sir. You betcha!)

"If anyone asks you about potatoes, tell them for this particular Bay climate, British Queens will yield twice as much as any other potato. I counted 16 good sized spuds on one vine. I have lots of proof.

"If you want it, I'll give you the secret about ground preparation for these spuds.

"Don't forget, if anyone asks you about corn seed or decorations, I I have oodles and gobs." (Yes sir. You betcha! Address: 293 41st St., Apt. 6, Oakland . . . Pi 2629J.)

"Next year I am going to only plant my three-quarter acre in corn and beans. They bear more and take less water. The Oregon Giant String bean did fine and I could have sold 10 times of what I had. Hoping we all have lots of success in next year's gardens, and also that you will again be on deck . . . yours truly, Albert J. Vegt."

If Mr. Vegt happens to read this, or if any of you happen to see him, or if he asks you, will you please tell him we'd like his secrets on ground preparation for spuds. We're always avid for secrets, just so long as they aren't military.

These Oregon Giant beans are good, but their yield per square foot, plus their bigness, make them only a secondary crop with most greenthumbers. . . . And just so you won't feel badly about not planting potatoes—remember that potatoes attract more insects above and below the ground than most. And if you don't have a large garden, you can use your soil to better advantage than growing potatoes . . . and don't forget that if you're gardening to help keep down the waist line and to keep slim, young vigorous and spry, the potatoes should not be a steady item of your diet. . . .

Officer Vegt's record of about 2000 pounds from 296 plants is good but not spectacular. That figures about 6¾ pounds per vine. Does any greenthumber have records better than that for the past season?

Squires Again

The Mt. Carmel Squire Circle of Redwood City won the two-star merit award in recognition of its outstanding record in all phases of squire activity for the year 1945-1946, according to Chief Counselor John L. Sullivan.

The following officers for the year 1946-'47 were elected at the last regular meeting: Robert Britschgi, chief squire, William Duffy, deputy chief squire, Roy Griffin, notary, Gilbert Pacini, bursar, John Graham, Marshall R. Malone, and William Formico, captains, H. Thierry, sentry, D. Bordenave, William Maginniss and John Spellman, auditors.

New officers will be installed by Guido Simoni, Chancellor of San Mateo Council Knights of Columbus at Mt. Carmel Hall on Wednesday. The social committee, headed by Squire James Burke, is preparing a special program for that evening.

Our Chest Expansion

Redwood City has attained 71 per cent of its $30,000 Community Chest quota, as weekend collections boosted the total subscribed to $21,931.54, Executive Secy. Evelyn Carlson announced Monday.

Redwood City's record stands out above the other communities participating in the San Mateo County Community Chest which have collected only 50 per cent of their quota, Mrs. Carlson pointed out.

"This should be an incentive to push the local quota over the top before the end of the drive and insure the nine benefiting agencies of the full support of the residents of Redwood City. The work of the USO and the eight youth agencies depends on money subscribed in this campaign and we can't let them down," Mrs Carlson said.

Tribune employes have subscribed $65.50, according to A. H. McGovern, chairman of the employes group, and Dr. Sumner Hardy, chairman of the Woodside solicitations, reported the amount of $3698 from his area.

John Mack, colonel for the Junior Chamber of Commerce turned in $94 for his team. He was assisted by Fred Silvey, Jack Dunlap and Sidney Hinman. Walter Hermann, colonel of the VFW team of D. R. Lewis, P. C. Kirk, Edmond Terry, Joseph Foulkes, Glen Sanders and Paul Meyer, reported $140.50.

W. S. Bagley, colonel of the IOOF team composed of E. E. Kiesling, Glen Alexander, J. C. Keiser and M. McArthur, turned in $69.

Fashion Show Time

Those wishing to sharpen their fashion-awareness with a view of the latest in fall and winter styles will want to mark off Monday, Nov. 4, on their calendars. It's the day of the next monthly fashion show luncheon given by the Palo Alto Junior Auxiliary to the Stanford Convalescent Home at the Allied Arts Guild.

The luncheon reservations are now open and may be made by calling Palo Alto 2-2124.

Eastern Star

Monday evening at the Masonic Hall amid the applause of members and friends of Sequoia Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Mrs. Ethel Holmquist was formally presented and introduced as the newly appointed deputy grand matron of the 41st District for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Holmquist received this honor last week at the Grand Chapter session in Sacramento. The newly installed grand matron of the State of California made the appointments of all deputies.

Mrs. Holmquist will have under her supervision the five chapters of this district: Palo Alto, Sequoia, San Carlos, Laurel at San Mateo and Burlingame. She is a past matron of Sequoia Chapter and has been active in Eastern Star activities for years. Isabella McBain of Burlingame is the retiring deputy. Mrs Holmquist's mother, Mrs. Ida Thompson, is also a very active member of the order.

The regular meeting was held with Mrs. Pansy Mansbarger, worthy matron and Vern Charles, worthy patron, presiding. Special guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sungmaster, worthy officers from Sebastopol.

Degrees were conferred by the officers. Velma Van Duyne was the accompanist and Estelle Clattenburg sang several selections.

Reports on the grand chapter meeting in Sacramento were given by Virginia Endrigo and Pansy Mansbarger.

It was announced that the next meeting on Nov. 4 would be the annual dinner meeting for members and guests. Reservations must be in by Friday, Nov 1, it was announced. On Nov. 4 officers will be elected.

Fall flowers and greens decorated the banquet hall and Mrs. Dorothy Seitz was banquet hall chairman. She was assisted by Mamie Duncan, Ethel Granger, Dollina Royer, Jessie Bloomquist, Elizabeth Turbitt and Jessie Choate.

Mrs. Spellman Feted

Mrs. John F. Spellman was the honored guest at a surprise stork shower on Saturday at her home at 514 Madison Ave., Redwood City.

Refreshments were served buffet style. Attending and bringing gifts to Mrs. Spellman were Mrs. Grace Spellman and Rosemary and Bonnie Spellman of San Francisco and Mmes. William Mattes, Clarence Ahern, P. J. Lawrence, J. D. Clark, T. Hopkins, G. A. Wildman, J. Schock of Redwood City and Mrs. L. Hardin of Santa Cruz.

5 GOOD REASONS why I like my new ELECTRIC RANGE

1 COOKS FAST SAVES TIME
I like the way my new electric range goes right to work cooking food. With the new, high-speed units, it's just "click and I get heat quick."
2 BETTER COOKING RESULTS
I'd say all foods taste better when cooked electrically. And the accurate time and temperature controls assure perfect recipe results.
3 GIVES ME LOW COST ELECTRICITY
My use of an electric range earns me a lower electric rate. It's like a quantity discount. I consider electric cooking a bargain value.
4 DEPENDABLE AND SAFE
I find it amazingly simple to cook electrically. And it is just as safe and easy as turning on an electric light.
5 CLEAN AS ELECTRIC LIGHT
My electric range not only cooks with clean, pure heat but it helps keep my kitchen walls and woodwork clean and free from smudge.

It is amazingly easy to turn out a perfect meal with an automatic electric range. There is no magic to it, just flip a switch and you can cook, broil, bake, or roast to perfection with never a worry about temperature adjustments.

With an electric range you have measured heat—the same amount of heat each time—and results will be uniformly good because you have positive temperature control.

Yes, cooking on a modern electric range means less work and consistently better results. Clean, fast, safe cooking—the electric way—and on low electric rates.

MOST EVERYTHING HAS JUMPED UP IN PRICE—BUT NOT YOUR ELECTRICITY

A Double Suicide

A Moss Beach mother who found her daughter dead of carbon monoxide poisoning Monday, apparently climbed into the same car and ended her life, Acting Chief Dep. Sheriff Jack O'Brien said Wednesday.

The bodies of the two women were found Tuesday in the back of the car parked in the garage of their home. The daughter was on the floor of the car, the mother on the seat.

The dead are Mrs. Isabel Stanley, 50, and her daughter, Elizabeth, 23.

Their bodies were found after Charles T. Nye, operator of the Moss Beach Hotel and a friend of the Stanleys, received an anonymous note which read:

"Go to the garage of Mrs. Stanley and you will find my daughter and myself."

Nye telephoned a friend, Fred Simmons, who went to the garage and found the bodies in the car. A rubber garden hose led from the exhaust of the car to a window and the gaps in the window had been stuffed with cotton. The cracks around the doors of the car were plugged up with a blanket.

O'Brien said that two suicide notes were found on the front seat of the car. The notes showed, O'Brien said, that Mrs. Stanley returned home after a walk and found her daughter's body in the car. She apparently then climbed into the automobile and committed suicide herself, O'Brien said.

Neighbors told him that Mrs. Stanley was a widow, O'Brien said, and that she had lost a son in the war. The death of her daughter evidently was too much for the mother, O'Brien said, and she therefore killed herself.

The note left by Elizabeth, written on the back of a manila envelope, reads:

"Mother darling: I had to or else be shut up. I know I'm losing my mind. Love, Betty."

Her mother's note was in more detail:

"To all we love: Betty started to San Francisco to see an art exhibit. I went for a walk by the sea and stopped to see a friend. When I got back I found my daughter dead. I can't go on without her. I have lost all my dear ones. Forgive us both.

"I leave all I have to my brother, Walter C. Collins of Santa Ana, Calif., and to my sister to dispose of as they see fit. Please notify my brother. I wish our bodies cremated without any ceremony, privately—no flowers.

"My daughter has been suffering from insomnia and nervous exhaustion but had slept well and was planning to live with friends in San Francisco sometime this week.

"Dearest love to all our dear ones and friends. Ina Stanley."

Against Proposition 7

Dr. Samuel Hepburn, San Mateo Junior College social science professor, warned a forum audience in San Mateo this week that failure of Americans to vote heavily in the coming elections may have world-wide repercussions.

He urged the passage of state proposition No. 3, setting a minimum $2400 salary for teachers, and the defeat of "unlucky 13," a proposition he said would seriously endanger California's school system.

Robert Hardgrove, secretary of the San Mateo-Burlingame chapter, American Veterans Committee, related how AVC had decided to oppose county proposition No. 7, the $750,000 War Memorial Building bond issue. He cited the county's need for health and police facilities as the deciding argument against the buildings.

A Novel Establishment

"Sydney's," 710 Winslow St., the only women's store of its type, opens this week, owner Sydney Gutterman announced Wednesday.

The store will feature linens, bedding, curtains, dinner ware, stemware, silverware and homeware.

Gutterman explained that first-day purchasers will each receive gifts.

Assisting in sales will be Mrs. Devera Gutterman.

Gutterman is a graduate of Stanford University and a former track star at Sequoia High School. Prior to opening his own business here he was employed in department stores in San Francisco and Palo Alto.

Judge Ward Is Leaving

The Burlingame City Council Monday accepted the resignation of City Judge A. J. Ward, submitted because of "impaired health." The resignation is effective Nov. 1.

Judge Ward has been on sick leave since Aug. 1. In accepting his resignation last night, the council voted to pay him for the month of October in addition to the 60 days' sick leave which he is allowed under civil service regulations.

W. H. Thorpe, Redwood City police judge, will continue as acting city judge of Burlingame until Judge Ward's successor is appointed.

A Chest Crisis

Fearful lest the current Redwood City Community Chest campaign stall short of its $30,000 goal, S. D. Herkner, chest president, called an emergency meeting of campaign colonels and chest agency representatives.

The emergency session will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall.

Herkner pointed out that several civic organizations who ordinarily aid in the residential district solicitation had not participated this year. As a result, several areas have not been solicited.

He said he will seek to enlist an emergency clean-up committee of Community Chest volunteers to take over the unfinished work.

A Strange Mystery

The skeleton found Sunday in a section of abandoned water pipe on Sawyer Camp Rd. near Skyline Blvd. still lacked a name after several atempts at identification failed.

Acting Chief Dep. Sheriff Jack O'Brien said Tuesday the skeleton definitely was not that of Peter Dooley, San Mateo painter who mysteriously disappeared in May, 1945. O'Brien had been asked by the state attorney general's office to check the possibility that the skeleton may have been Dooley's.

The Menlo Council

Beginning this year, the mayor of Menlo Park will be elected by the City Council from among its members every April, rather than every other year. He is subject to re-election.

The new system was adopted by the council at its meeting Tuesday, and the controlling ordinance will go into effect at the end of 30 days.

The new ordinance also provides for council committees. Under the former system, council members headed city departments alone. Under the new system, they will be assisted by a committee of two other commissioners.

The mayor is automatically chairman of the finance committee, and he appoints the committee. His choices are subject to approval by the council.

Committees will be appointed on Nov. 26, Mayor Charles P. Burgess said Tuesday night.

He commented that under the new system, decisions can be made after a conference among the three members of the committee, rather than by one man.

A council request that the state bear the total cost of installing traffic signals at El Camino Real and Ravenswood Ave. was turned down in a letter to the council from John H. Skeggs, district engineer of the State Division of Highways.

Funds for the signals would come from the ¼-cent gas tax fund. The city council wanted the state to bear the full cost because most of the city's share of the gas tax fund is slated for use in the proposed Santa Cruz Ave. improvement project.

The council instructed Edwin Smith, city engineer, to ask that the state pay two-thirds of the cost and the city, one-third, because Ravenswood Ave. ends at the highway.

The Southern Pacific Co., in a reply to a request by the council for a watchman at the Ravenswood Ave. crossing, said the wigwag and two-train signal now at the crossing should be sufficient. They said experience showed that a driver who will go through such warning signals also would go past a watchman. However, they said they would "look into the matter further."

Death in a Well

The body of Mrs. Maude Cratty, 52, of 1924 Cordelleras Rd. was found Tuesday at the bottom of a well in her garage and Frank Marlowe, special investigator for the district attorney's office, says that he believes her death was accidental.

Dr. Stewart Lindsay performed an autopsy Wednesday, declared that drowning was the cause of Mrs. Cratty's death. Bruises on her head and back indicated she had hit a ledge in the well as she fell.

The body was found by her husband, Arthur Cratty, 65, and a fellow worker, Joseph Cowgill, at 6:30 that night.

Cratty told Marlowe that his wife had been planning to visit her mother, Mrs. Etta Roberts, in Richmond for several days. Cratty returned from work with Cowgill, who was going to spend a few days with him while his wife was away.

The two men cooked their dinner, and after the dinner Cratty went to the garage. Cowgill told Marlowe that he saw Cratty lighting matches in the garage and that he went out to see what the matter was.

"I think that she's in there," Marlowe quoted Cowgill as saying.

Cowgill then ran for a flashlight and the two men saw the body at the bottom of the well.

Dep. Sheriffs John Hosford and Everett Heagney reported that the well had been covered with boards which were rotted. With the aid of County Fireman George McKibben they brought up the body.

The officers reported that Mrs. Cratty evidently was putting clothes in the car in preparation for her trip to Oakland when the boards broke and she fell headfirst into the well. They set the time of the accident as sometime during the morning, for Mrs. Cratty was wearing only a housecoat and slippers. Other clothing was found in the well, indicating that she may have been carrying it her arms.

The officers plan to drain the well, which is about 25 feet deep and has about 5 feet of water in it.

The couple had been married over 20 years. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Cratty is survived by a daughter, Jeannine, 17, and Wayne Smith of Abilene, Tex., a son by a former marriage.

Spur Track Voted

The board of supervisors Tuesday passed a resolution granting a permit to the Harbor Development Co. of San Francisco to build a spur track across the Old County Rd. north of Harbor Blvd. in Belmont to serve a proposed industrial development east of the city. The board had previously denied the company's request for two spur tracks.

It also agreed with an opinion offered by Sheriff J. J. McGrath that the Cow Palace should supply its own police guards for the Livestock Exposition (Nov. 15-24) instead of using county police.

The board will hold another special meeting on Oct. 29.

A Historic Estate

The action of the County Board of Supervisors Tuesday in approving the boundaries of Millbrae, including the much-debated Burlingame 100-foot "Chinese Wall" around the Mills estate promises to wind up in a court battle.

The supervisors Tuesday set Dec. 10 as the date for Millbrae to hold its election on the proposed incorporation. The board also set the boundaries of the proposed incorporated city to include the 100-foot strip which the Mills Estate Co. had asked Burlingame to incorporate.

The Burlingame incorporation action took place on Sept. 23, and midnight last night was the legal deadline for the action to become effective. The supervisors' move blocks this.

J. A. Branson, representing the citizens of Millbrae, was jubilant after yesterday's session. In referring to Burlingame he said:

"We beat them to the draw."

Ike Karmel, Burlingame city attorney, and Duncan A. McLeod indicated that the fight is not yet over. They hinted at court action.

As the situation now stands, Burlingame will keep that part of the Mills estate east of the Southern Pacific tracks and known as Mills Manor. The 900 acres west of the tracks, which yesterday was mentioned as a possible part of the United Nations site, will go to Millbrae.

Unless the courts decide otherwise.

The Burlingame action had left the major portion of the Mills estate as an unincorporated island bordered on the south by the Burlingame city limits and with the remaining perimeter the 100-foot incorporated "Chinese Wall."

McLeod, who had given as one of the reasons for wishing to avoid incorporation with Millbrae the fact that the Mills heirs were tied financially, politically and socially to Burlingame. He indicated that supervisors' action would not be pleasing to such social figures in the Mills family as Lady Grannard and Lady Ward of London.

Gardening Tips

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

If you want to try something new—something the dealers don't have in their seed packet racks—send a self addressed, stamped envelope to Rolly Langley, Redwood City Tribune.

And what will you get? Enough seed to plant a 10-foot row of Nantes Strongtop Carrots. And why are these seeds in this trial offer worth waiting for?

Nantes carrots have long been recognized as the most flavorful of all varieties. They're sweeter, and the texture is superior. Moreover, the roots are between five and six inches long, with a "stub" or blunt end, resulting in more edible food, than where the root tapers out into a long, thin string-like tap.

But the truck farmers who grow the vegetables for people forced to buy their vegetables in stores don't grow Nantes Carrots to any extent, chiefly because the tops have always been so weak that harvest has been difficult. You pull on the average Nantes carrot and instead of pulling it up, all you get is a handful of tops.

So the seed breeders had a definite goal. . . . They worked to preserve the fine qualities of the Nantes, which is practically coreless and has a good orange-yellow meat, and at the same time, to put more tensile strength in the tops.

While the result is just what the breeders wanted, when you look at the new Nantes Strongtop Carrot, you won't see much difference, and will scarcely appreciate the thaumaturgy involved. (If you don't know that word, it means "performance of a miracle or wonder" . . . I looked it up!)

So, if your family likes really fine carrots, and you have a bit of sunny space in your garden, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and you'll receive a trial packet right away. As always, there's no obligation—no strings whatsoever. Simply the management of your favorite paper wants to help you. . . . wants to promote more garden activity.

If ever families ought to help themselves, now's the time. Food prices now make a dollar bill more like JUST a leaf of lettuce than ever before. You're paying rent or taxes on that backyard, so you should keep it producing around the calendar.

Carrots like a loose, light soil with NO rocks or gravel or pebbles in it. Since the Nantes carrot matures six inches long, you should make a deep seed bed. I'm going to give you an outline of procedure which is pretty sure to give you the best results. If you don't feel like following it, okay. Carrots are pretty easy to grow, anyway. However, if you have heavy adobe or clay soil, you'd better pay some heed to what follows.

Dig a trench about a foot wide and 16 inches or more deep. Lay the first four inches of soil to one side and the balance on the other. Make this trench 10 or 12 feet long.

Now the mix you make for refilling the trench will depend on your soil type. You'll want sand, and organic matter in the form of peatmoss, leafmold, compost—all well screened. Fill the trench with this mix, being generous with the sand. What you want is a reasonable facsimile of a sandy loam, and use the topsoil for a special mix for the top of the refill.

Make the refill several inches (say 3) higher than the garden level. (It will settle some, and you want this bed raised a bit anyway.)

Next make a furrow about a half-inch deep. A one-inch thick board with a straight edge is fine for this. Now you're ready to plant, and since these are special seeds, be specially careful. Plant about 16 seeds per foot of row. (You'll have enough seed in the trial packet to plant just a bit more closely if you want.)

When the seed are sown, cover the furrow with screened peatmoss and loam, about half and half, well mixed. Use the flat side of the board and firm this down well, after you've insured moisture in the bed.

With the deep trench under the seed, the peatmoss and loam on top and the general humidity of the air at this season, you should get a high percentage of germination.

That's all there is to it, and if you don't have room in your garden right now, better send for the seed anyway. They'll be good next Spring.

No obligation, as stated, but I would appreciate a report of your summer garden, and include any questions you'd like answered in this column.

Santa Claus Is Coming

Plans to make Redwood City the Christmas showplace of the Peninsula were completed by a merchant's section committee of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

A campaign to raise $3000 to finance the program started Wednesday.

The committee, headed by Keith Cole, photographer, expressed determination to make the city's Christmas decorations and pageant a first class presentation.

Dan Lebo, chairman of the merchant's section, predicted that the business community would rally to the cause, particularly in view of desire to improve over 1945 Yule decorations.

In charge of financing the program are Charles Mitchell of Mitchell's Bootery and Abe Jacobs of the Redwood Town Shop.

B. B. Berman announced that if sufficient funds are raised, a nightly Santa Claus parade, with artificial snowballs and a searchlight display, will start with a downtown Christmas party Dec. 14. It is also proposed to erect a Nativity Scene on the Central School lawn and to invite church carolers to sing nightly.

Also in attendance at Tuesday's committee meeting were E. W. Butler, chamber of commerce manager, John Ryan, director, and Ray Spangler, president.

Juvenile Court

Four Redwood City youths who had admitted being part of a gang which stole at least eight cars in San Mateo County were sentenced by Judge Aylett R. Cotton in a special session of juvenile court, Wednesday.

Of the four, two of the boys, 15 and 16 years old, were sent to the California Youth Authority. One 15-year-old was put on probation and ordered to make restitution of $154, while the fourth, who is 16, was sent to the Log Cabin Ranch School at La Honda and ordered to pay $226.91 in restitution.

The case of two others involved in the same thefts was continued for several weeks, pending the arrival of their parents.

A 9-year-old chronic was put under 90 days observation and the driver's license of a 16-year-old boy who had been arrested for speeding was revoked for two years. Judge Cotton also ordered a 19-year-old girl charged with sex offenses to be sent to the youth authority.

Three boys, 13 and 14 years old, who had torn up school records and caused damage estimated at $2000 to a grade school in South San Francisco, also came before Judge Cotton. Two were ordered to the youth authority and the third was sent to Log Cabin School.

A Benefit for Carriers

A California newspaper boy foundation was set up by the California Circulation Managers Assn. at its annual convention in Sacramento Tuesday, and E. R. Lovett, general manager of the Peninsula Newspapers Inc., was elected a director.

The purpose of the foundation is to increase the advantages of newspaper carrier work, to enlarge the insurance program for carriers on the job, and to set up scholarships and other awards for carriers of outstanding ability.

At a luncheon meeting yesterday, Lovett presented Governor Warren with the association's newsboy trophy, awarded him as a one-time carrier for the Bakersfield Californian. The cup was engraved with the tribute, "Started as a newspaper carrier — now California's leading citizen."

Elystus and Harold Hayes, publishers of the San Jose Mercury-Herald, were hosts Tuesday at a reception for the circulation managers.

Don Farmer of the Mercury-Herald is president of the association. Among those attending were Charles Tyler, James Wood, and Paul Lee, circulation managers for the Palo Alto Times, Redwood City Tribune and Burlingame Advance, respectively.

Mayo, A Guest Speaker

S. S. Mayo, Sequoia Evening High School head, and high school mathematics instructor, addressed members of the Contra Costa County Teachers' Institute in Richmond Tuesday on "Making Mathematics More Functional."

Mayo's invitation to speak as the result of an article written by him on the same subject which appeared in the Curriculum Journal two years ago, and which has drawn much comment since its publication.

Making mathematics instruction tie in with every day life and bringing into the classroom practical applications taken from shops and industry was the theme of his address.

Our Firemen

Redwood City firemen extinguished a rubbish fire early Wednesday and a grease fire Tuesday.

At 5:55 a.m. they put out the rubbish fire in the rear of 2034 Broadway. There was no damage.

Tuesday they extinguished a grease fire in a stove at the Cozy Corner Cafe, El Camino Real and Brewster Ave.

A Friendly Nation

The United States maintains a very strong influence over the people of Norway — more, probably, than any other nation in the world.

This is the opinion of Jan Mauritz, representative of the Norwegian government and former pilot in the Norwegian Air Forces, who addressed the Redwood City Rotary Club Tuesday.

Mauritz explained that Norway, like the United States, is subject to rationing, price ceilings and a housing shortage. "In fact," he added, "housing conditions in Oslo are even worse than right here on the Peninsula."

Describing conditions in post-war Norway, Mauritz said that 48,000 quislings are on trial for crimes against the people. The leaders are receiving death sentences; others are getting prison terms," he pointed out.

Norway was very fortunate, Mauritz said, "Because our country escaped the war with very little destruction."

He explained that 10 per cent of the American forces stationed in Norway are picking out Norwegian girls as their wives. "This is tough competition for my countrymen," he added.

Mauritz said that the American dollar is worth two to three times as much in Norway as it is here, and as a result Norwegians are able to exist on a much lower standard of living.

"This also permits us to pay our sailors a smaller wage and run the United States stiff competition in the shipping industry," he said.

Jack Russell introduced the speaker.

The New Phone Head

E. C. Krase of Mountain View Wednesday was named manager of Redwood City telephone exchange, replacing M. A. Gooding, who has been assigned to staff work in San Francisco division headquarters.

Krase, past president of the Mountain View Rotary Club, has two daughters, one of whom is a recent Stanford University graduate. He plans to move here with his family in the near future.

Gooding, who has been manager in Redwood City since 1941, is a member of the Kiwanis Club, and in 1944 was head of the chamber of commerce industrial section.

Announcement was made by W. E. Williams, district manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Bike Riding Laws

Redwood City police in the future will enforce laws relating to bicycles more stringently, Police Lt. S. D. Wood announced today.

The officer said that in the main bike riders are violating three laws:

1. They are riding on sidewalks and this is dangerous to pedestrians.

2. They are riding their bikes against the stream of motor vehicle travel on roads.

3. They are leaving their bikes scattered on sidewalks instead of parking them.

Both Wood and City Mgr. E. W. Blom remarked about the violations today and both promised more stringent police action against the offenders.

Blom said that police would impound bikes of all offenders caught.

The police lieutenant said that police would not pick up bicycles if they were parked in racks or leaned against racks that are already full—but he did say that bicycles found lying on sidewalks or streets would be picked up and brought to the police station.

The Cow Plague Is Safe

Redwood City dairy products users are in no danger of poisoning as the result of the deaths of 12 Occidental Creamery cows, Gen. Mgr. M. A. Holsworth said Wednesday.

The manager pointed out that all stock lost was in Redwood City and that all of the cows lost were too young to be used for milk production. The cows the company uses to supply Redwood City milk users are in Manteca, he said.

State health officers are conducting an autopsy to determine the cause of death of the 12 young cows who died after grazing in a field on Bayshore Hwy. near the Red Feather Products Ltd. plant.

Bride Badly Hurt

Mrs. Barbara Conley, 24, formerly of Redwood City, bride of a day, remained in a critical condition in Stanislaus Co. Hospital Tuesday, with injuries suffered in an automobile accident Monday which proved fatal to her husband, William Conley, 26, of San Francisco.

The couple was married in Stanford Memorial Chapel Sunday and were en route to Yosemite Valley on their wedding trip when their car and a truck collided west of Modesto today.

Mrs. Conley, who suffered a skull fracture, crushed chest and internal injuries, had not regained consciousness early Tuesday.
